

A COOL ENDEAVOR

Jonathan Lundy Creates Gourmet Ice Creams

By Amber Scott

The only knowledge Jonathan Lundy had of the huge stainless steel machine in his newly purchased kitchen was that it was made in 1987 by Emery Thompson and that it was for ice cream. A pretty useless machine considering that Jonathan and his wife Cara weren't interested in the dessert industry when they opened Jonathan at Gratz Park, specializing in redefined regional fare.

It didn't take long before his culinary curiosity got the best of him though. While he wasn't busy perfecting his rock salt roasted chicken or creating the perfect pot sticker, Jonathan was mixing up eggs, cream and sugar and transforming them from a scalding liquid to a frozen delight. ➤
